Applications open for Procter & Gamble's summer internship

August 1st, 2008

Procter & Gamble is offering the opportunity for 12 talented students in their penultimate year to work as interns over 8 weeks in summer in their Sydney, Melbourne or Singapore offices. At the end of the internship students will have the opportunity to secure the ultimate graduate role at the world's largest consumer goods company.

P&G seeks students with strong leadership skills, an innovative & creative mindset with the ability to work well in a team. In return, interns will work on real-life projects with P&G people. Mr. Stas Madorski, who is in his final year at Sydney University, worked as a marketing intern in P&G's Singapore office last summer. "The best thing about the P&G internship is the exciting real world project that you're given. Many of my friends taking internships complained about having to make coffee for others, and making photocopies. At P&G, nothing could be further from the truth. Essentially, you become a full time employee of the company and are assigned a project to complete in two months on a big brand (a billion dollar brand in my case)".

Interns at P&G have the opportunity to secure a graduate role ahead of their peers. Mr Madorski said, "I was offered a graduate job before the stressful graduate recruitment period began. My friends stressed and watched their grades slip as they missed classes for interviews. Meanwhile, I was secure in my offer with the most prestigious and innovative FMCG company in the world. The internship was a life-changing experience where I learned rapidly, and had a lot of fun".

Interns are paid & those going to Singapore will have airfares, accommodation & per-diem allowances paid for by P&G. Applications for Procter & Gamble's intern program open on July 21, 2008. Go to www.aaijobs.pg.com to apply. Applications close on August 31. Applicants must be Australian or New Zealand citizens or hold Permanent Residency.
